About Brandon McKelvey

Brandon is a founding partner at Medina McKelvey LLP where he defends businesses against wage and hour class and representative actions, acts as a consultant on large employment class actions, and serves as an arbitrator and mediator in employment law cases. He has over 15-years of class action experience on both sides of the bar. During his career, Brandon has argued wage and hour class action issues at state and federal courts of appeal, created a popular employment law blog, lectured at conferences, and recently co-founded a California legal compliance training company dedicated to helping businesses navigate the complexities of California law.

About Medina McKelvey LLP

Medina McKelvey LLP is a Northern California boutique representing businesses in general employment litigation with a focus on wage and hour class and representative action defense. The firm's attorneys have over 20 years of collective class action experience and have created innovative litigation and compliance solutions for businesses in California.

Event Synopsis:

Class and representative wage and hour lawsuits continue to plague employers across the country. The costs and risks associated with prolonged litigation often means early settlement is the best course for both employers and employees. Because of the unique nature of class and representative action settlements, it is crucial for employment litigators and in-house counsel to be well versed with the various aspects of class and representative action settlements, including calculating potential exposure and ensuring court approval.

In this two-hour LIVE webcast, a panel of key thought leaders and practitioners will help the audience grapple the ever-evolving landscape of wage and hour law.

Key Topics:

- Handling and Preparing for the Initial Investigation Once a Class or Representative Action Has Been Filed
- Assessing Exposure With or Without an Expert
- Resolving Wage and Hour Actions Through Settlement

- Negotiating Settlements
- Getting Class and Representative Settlements Approved
- Making Sure Your Wage and Hour Class Action Settlement Gets Approved by The Court
- Best Strategies for Avoiding Wage and Hour Actions
- Analysis of Recent Cases and Trends
